Course Description/Overview

This laboratory course is designed to supplement and enhance the materials taught in CH3510. In this course, students will develop skills in the collection and evaluation of reliable data by understanding the importance of quantitative methods, error analysis, and both oral and written communication.

Learning Objectives

The exercises in this course are designed to:
1. Give students experience in preparation of procedures for carrying out experiments including safe laboratory practices.
2. Expose students to data measurement and evaluation describing fundamental concepts of physical chemistry.
3. Expose students to modern experimental equipment, instruments, and techniques.
4. Develop the ability to use mathematical analysis to correctly interpret and describe the numerical significance of experimental results.
5. Teach students to work successfully in groups.
6. Have students successfully communicate results in written reports.

<td>Conditional, with no grade points per credit; given only when the student is at fault in failing to complete a minor segment of a course, but in the judgment of the instructor does not need to repeat the course. It must be made up within the next semester in residence or the grade becomes a failure (F). A (X) grade is computed into the grade point average as a (F) grade.</td>

Grading Policy

Grades will be based on the following:
Individual Pre-Lab Report Portions | 30
---|---
Individual Final Report Portions | 30
Group Reports (Pre-Lab and Final) | 20
Instructor Evaluations (Individual) | 10
Peer/Self Evaluations (Individual) | 10
Total Points | 100

NOTE: 20% of grade will be based on group effort.

Late Assignments
There may be a deduction for each class day that a report is late after the due date. Preliminary lab reports are due before the experiment begins, whereas most of the final reports are due within 2 lab periods of the scheduled completion of the experiment. The last final report due date is no later than 5p the Friday before finals’ week during fall & spring semesters.

Course Policies
20% of scores will be based on group performance:
- Divide time and effort as equally as possible.
- Notify your group of upcoming absences in advance.
- Your group has the option of not including your name on any report.

The name of each student contributing to a report must be included on the title page of the reports. In addition, the portion of the report that each student is responsible for should be indicated. If your name is not included on the title page, you will not receive group points for the report unless you submit your own (individual/entire) report.

Students are responsible for conducting themselves in a safe manner, becoming aware of and informed about special hazards of technique, apparatus or chemicals in the chemical laboratory. They are expected to conform to any safety instructions presented orally or in writing by the instructor or contained in posted instructions or safety memoranda that are distributed. The MTU Department of Chemistry laboratory safety rules are available on the Canvas web site: http://www.courses.mtu.edu/

Collaboration/Plagiarism Rules
The following are prohibited in this course and violate the Academic Integrity Code of Michigan Tech.
- Written or digital information exchanges that are inter-group or inter-section. (Most forms of intra-group communication are acceptable.)
- Use or possession of “scoop” materials for any of the laboratory assignments
- Plagiarism
University Policies

Academic regulations and procedures are governed by University policy. Academic dishonesty cases will be handled in accordance the University's policies.
